

Industrial Painter Design Spec

Ellen Simons

This website will have a classic, simple design that is visually appealing to the user and only provides them with the necessary information. By using a clean design, the user will be able to focus on the information without any extra clutter on the page. The different shades of blue and grey give a light, airy feel to the page that doesn't overwhelm the user. The user should be able to easily navigate the website using the clear text and easy to use navigation bar. This classic design will help the company quickly get their point across while proving that they are professional and trustworthy.
